1. Curriculum questions

- Should courses be divided into two tiers to ensure that essential skills are both introduced and reinforced?
- Should there be a common first year experience course?
- Should there be a capstone course, associated with the major, in which students are asked to demonstrate mastery of essential skills?
- How do we design a curriculum that ensures that students take courses outside the major?
- How do we balance independence of institutions in designing a general education curriculum with the need to ensure that general education credits transfer seamlessly across the state?
